

NATIONAL SYMPOSIUM ANNOUNCEMENT

22 - 23 DECEMBER, 2022

THE ENTOMOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF ZAMBIA IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE, UNIVERSITY OF ZAMBIA WILL HOLD ITS 1ST SYMPOSIUM ON:

THEME:

CLIMATE CHANGE - IT'S IMPACTS ON PESTS, DISEASE VECTORS, VECTOR-BORNE DISEASES, EDIBLE AND BENEFICIAL INSECTS

PURPOSE OF THE SYMPOSIUM

The Symposium will provide a forum for scientists who are concerned with the impacts of climate change on pests, disease vectors, vector-borne diseases, edible and beneficial insects to share knowledge on the subject matter and suggest means of mitigating the negative impacts of climate change. The topics will cover the biology and control of these organisms. The behaviour of these organisms with regards to their vectorial capacities, disease and pest outbreaks and susceptibility to extinction with the changing environment, will be of particular interest.

Topics of Interest for Submission Include, but are not Limited to:

- ❖ Storage Pests
- ❖ Crop Pests
- ❖ Beneficial Insects
- ❖ Medical and Veterinary Vectors
